

Nina Johnson-Pitt, Senior Strategy Executive, Little League International

Nina Johnson-Pitt was named as Little League International's Senior Strategy Executive in December of 2020. In this position, Ms. Johnson-Pitt is responsible for providing comprehensive vision, leadership, and planning for organization-wide strategy, continuing to evolve the Little League program to provide an unmatched youth sports experience for families around the world.

Ms. Johnson-Pitt first joined Little League as the Central Region Assistant Director in 2006 and was named the Region Director in 2011. During her time working for the Central Region, Ms. Johnson-Pitt has been instrumental in the development of programs in 13 states, the operation and growth of the Little League Softball® Central Region Tournament and Little League Baseball® Great Lakes and Midwest Region Tournaments, and the most recent relocation of the Central Region headquarters to Whitestown, Indiana.

Prior to joining the Little League staff, Ms. Johnson-Pitt worked in a variety of positions in the non-profit sports sector, including the YMCA of Central Indiana and the Summit Area YMCA in New Jersey.

A graduate of Ball State University with a Bachelor of Applied Science in Sport and Fitness Administration/Management, Ms. Johnson-Pitt also serves as a member of Pitch in for Baseball & Softball's Advisory Council. She has also represented Little League as a spokesperson and as a featured panelist and speaker and continues to exemplify her leadership, knowledge, and expertise at other speaking and networking events nationwide.

In addition to her work for Little League, Ms. Johnson-Pitt is also a Little League mom and softball coach. She and her husband reside in South Carolina with their three daughters.